The Elections in Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin.

Triumph of the Union Party in Maryland, &c., &c..

We are yet unable to give the entire vote of the State on the different candidates, or the exact majority that the Union State ticket has received. The vote throughout the State has been very light, and we predict will be year ago. The indications are that William W. Wright ocratic candidate for Canal Commissioner, has slipped in between Talmadge and Bruce, although the friends of the latter still claim his election.

In this city the returns exhibit a mixed and jumbled up mess, and that but little attention has been paid by the voters to the regularity of the nominations. Contrary to ral expectation, Woodruff and Hoffman, of the Supe Court, have been defeated, and C. L. Moneil and J. M. Barbour elected in their place. This shows very plainly that it takes something besides a nomination to elect candidates in New York. Hoffman and Woodruff received nearly all the nominations, but Monell and Barbour appear to have received the votes.

The republicans have secured four of the seventeen Asn from this city; of the other thirteen, two or three were run on the republican ticket, but are demo-

The four Senators from the city are democrats, but are on the war platform.

As it will be plainly seen by the table of votes that are civen below, Lynch has been elected Sherif, Genet County Clerk and Oakly Hall District Attorney. The "Ring" combination was successful on most of their county ticket, but not quite as successful on a portion of their Senators and Assemblymen, although we imagine that the public will find before the close of the next session that they have elected more of their men to the Senate and Assembly than is for the real good

The Affray at Halifax on Board the Shooting Star.

Halfax, N. S., Nov. 6, 1861.

The particulars of the recent affray on board the Shooting Star are as follows:—Two policemen went aboard to sorve a writ for a small amount, when they were attacked by the crew. One of the policemen was killed and the other wounded. The crew afterward cut the cable and made sail, but being pursued by a steamer ran her aground. All hands and two women were captured on board of a schooner bound to Gloucester. An inquest will be held on the body of the policeman. The captain's name is Lane, and is of Gloucester; that of the murderer is Burdeil, of New York.

NEWS FROM THE LOWER POTOMAC.

OUR NAVAL CORRESPONDENCE.

UNITED STATES STEAMER YANKES, OFF INDIAN HEAD, POTOMAC RIVER, Oct. 30, 1861. What the Robel Batteries are Doing—Arrival of the Dawn—
A Loyal Baltimore Skipper—The Truth Respecting the Robel Batteries—How They are Situated, and Their Extent—Where the Page is Lying, &c., &c.

For the last two or three days, save a harmless shot low and then from the rebel batteries at Shipping Point and vicinity, everything has been quiet on the river below Washington. Nothing has transpired worthy of a tolegraphic despatch, and there has been very little moving to and fro on the part of the flotilla. The Dawn came down from Washington this morning, and is now

The rebel steamer George Page has removed so far up Quantico creek that she is no longer discernible from the river. Her commander seems to suspect that there is a rod in pickle for her whenever she shall please to make her appearance, and therefore he wisely prefers remaining snugly ensoenced in the creek.

To-day the master of a Baltimore scheener, accompanied by three other men, came on board the Yankee, and asked Captain Eastman's opinion in respect to the likelihood of his passing Quantico creek without being moiested by the Page, adding that he did not care a lig for the batteries, as he drew very little water, and could keep well in to the Maryland shore. He said he had Commodore Craven's permission to go down, if he would venture. He was anxious to get down, so as to be in Baltimore in time for the ensuing election for Governor, and he meant to hoist that flag (pointing to the new ensign, nearly as large as his mainsail, then flying at his peak) when the Union candidate is elected. Captain Eastman gave the honest man reason sufficient to allay all approbension in respect to the Page, and he went on board his own vessel rejocing, and declaring he would make the attempt after dark, adding that, sooner than let the schooner fall into the hands of the rebels, he would set her on fire with his own hands, and make his way to Baltimore by land, in time to cast his vote for the Union candidate.

What is the matter with the Washington correspondent of one of your city journals? This gentleman, with characteristic courtesy, says:—"The Herand's story that the rebel batteries extend twenty mice along the Potomac is 'a lie well told." He then dogmatically addis:—"The fact is, that the batteries extend only five miles, and are not so formidable that they cannot be silecced." I shall not imitate the style of the correspondent, or I might easily retort by saying that his lie, at the commencement of his very next paragraph, that the rebel steamer Page has been obliged to take refuge in Occopan creek, does not even posse the correspondent, or I might easily retort by saying that his lie, at the commencement of his very next paragraph, that the rebel stesmer Page has been obliged to take refuge in Occoquan creek, does not even possess the redeeming merit of being well told. The difference between the correspondent of the Hakald and your contemporary is simply this, that the former has had a close and intimate acquaintance with these batteries from the time of their erection, seems of these at Aquia creek dating from May last, while the latter has always kept at a safe distance—some fifty miles or so from them. If the man thinks they are so very harmless, why does he not come and look at them, hear them speak, and report what they say. The batteries, as far as they are known to exist, and without counting such as may remain masked, now begin at Opossum's New, that line extending four miles, to Chapiawmissic creek, where, as is well known, another line of batteries begins, extending to Potomac creek to Mathias Point is a distance of fifteen miles, in a straight line, or, following the curve of fitteen miles, in a straight line, or, following the curve of the shore, seventeen miles. From the former place, nearly to the latter, is a chain of earthworks, but no guns are believed to be mounted. These distances were pricked off with the dividers on Phelips' chart this morning, and have not been guessed at With regard to the batteries, I repeat, I have seen them, and more than once came near feeling them to some purpose. The man knews nothing about them but what he has been told, or what he imagines—shall radd, invent. Taking the batteries as extending from Opessum's Nose to Potomac creek, with a probable gap between, for which I made allowance in previous communications, a line of batteries of nearly twenty miles is clearly made out; and this without taking from Opessum's Nose to Potomac creek and Mathiar Point, or calculating on the strong probability of masked batteries between Opossum's Nose and Freestene Point, in the opposite dire

The election returns in this city indicate that Augustos W. Bradford, the Union candidate for Governor, and the whole Union ticket has from 10,000 to 15,000 majority.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6—Evening.

The election in the city passed off without any disturbance. Over two hundred arrests were made of parties charged with treasonable conduct. Many, however, were subsequently discharged.

The whole vote in the city reached about 20,000.

Washington county, it is estimated, gives 2,000 majority for Bradford.

Hartford county gives a large Union majority.

Frederick county also.

The Union majority in the State will be very large.

Eikton, Cecil county, gives a Union majority of 1,000.

Bradford's (Union) majority has not yet been ascertained, but will not fall short of 15,000.

Framment, Nov. 6—Noga.

The election is preceding very quietly. There is no disturbance, and no armed military near the polls. The Union ticket is thus far six hundred ahead in Frederick counts and a six hundred ahead in Frederick that is country, inspires me with the despest regret. MILITARY MOVEMENTS IN NEW YORK.

THEIR DEPARTURE TO MORROW This fine corps, at present stationed at Turtle Bay Park, fully equipped with the Enfield rife, and 900 strong, will cave camp this morning, at eleven o'cleck, for the seat of war. It is rather remarkable that this is the only regiment which does not embrace within its ranks English, Irish or Scotch, but is composed of men who have fought and are the descendants of those who have taken part in the European continental wars. [This can be easily per ceived by reading over the list of officers.] The Fifty-eighth is made up of Italians, Germans, Poles, French, Danes and—what no other regiment can Poles, French, Danes and—what no other regiment can boast of that has left for the seat of war—Russians form a strong part of the corps. Strictly speaking it is a Continental European regiment. The Colonel and Adjutant have seen active service on the continent of Europe, and many of the corps, which is a safe guarantee that their discipline is of a very superior kind. When the Adjutant was taking an active part in the Ransas struggle, so ably did he discharge his duties that the invading army effered a reward of $2,900 for the head of the gaiant soldier and Senator. An incident worthy of relating is, that both Colonel and Adjutant are married to two Quaker ladies, which testifies their warmth in the cause of freedom, that Christian sect being strongly opposed to war and its ravages. The Colonel halfs from Washington City, and the Adjutant came all the way from lows City, in the State of lows, where he was practising law very successfully. The regiment, as a whole, cannot be surpassed by any other corps. The men are fine, soldierly losking fellows and well disciplined, and they feel no droad in "meeting freedom's foe again." A splendid regimental band is attached to the corps, and with accompany it to the seat of war. They leave Turtle Bay Park this morning at eleven o'clock. Following is a list of officers, which has not yet appeared in any print of this city—— Field—Colofiel, W. Krzyzanowski; Lieutenant Colonel, —— Major, F. Gellmann.

THE FIFTY-THIRD REGIMENT, D'EPINEUIL ZOUAVES

The presentation of a flag to this admirable regi was to have taken place yesterday, but on account of the bad state of the weather was postponed until the first the day.

The camp presented, before the rain fell, as gay and martial an appearance as could be depicted, every interval between the tents being lined with a doubte row of fir trees, transplanted for the purpose within the space of twenty six hours, arches and festoons of flowers and evergreens, spanning and interfacing the streets, which in some lastances bore the most curious names. For instance, rue Side tam tum, a name which recalled reminiscences of Algeria; rue Solferino, which at once made the thoughts return to the glorious fields of the late Italian campaign. One arch was inscribed with the following noble words:—"Hour country calls the rest are ready," another, "Union forever." Four broken Corinthian columns, with firely wrought podestals, wreathed with flowers, huge urns, of classic shape, represented an Italian ruin. A fine stand or aftar was raised in the foreground for the performance of the ceremony. The priest in his robos awaited the commencement of the proceedings. The men drawn up in line, with a beautiful band playing popular operatic airs, banners faunting in the breeze, and numbers of well dressed ladies and gentlemen who had come for the purpose of witnessing the interesting ceremony, presented a seme which ence beheld ould never be forgotten. But the unmerciful rain just at that point came down with a fury most terrible, and the order was given to the mon to disperse and seek the shelter of their tents, which was at once complied with, and with a hearty cheer they made a rush for their shelter. The distinguished officer who has given his name to the regiment, and to whose unwerried exertions its success is due, is a very soldierly looking man, seemingly about thirty-five years of age. A native of France, he entered the service while quite young, and in that admirable school for the attainment of military knowledge and experience he passed sevention years of his life. At the breaking out of the rebellion he hastened to offer his asvices to the government, proposing to raise a regiment of The camp presented, before the rain fell, as gay and

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STAIR OF NEW YORK, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, ALBANY, NOV. 5, 1861.

The Sixty-minth regiment New York State Volunteers, Colonel Negent commanding, will proceed to Washington on Monday next, the 11th instant, and report for duty with his command to the General-in-Chief. Colonel Negent will cause timely requisitions to be made for arms, uniforms and all other supplies necessary, including transportation and subsistence on the route, and have full and complete mater rolls properly certified to by the matering officers, filed in this department on the other than the standard of the supplies have not passed their examinations, will appear before the Examining Beard without delay. Brigather General Yates is charged with the execution of the details of this order. By order of the Commander in Chief.

THOMAS HILLHOUSE, Adjutant General.

GENERAL WOOL'S BODY CUARD. The organization above referred to is one of the best disciplined and most efficient corps in the service, and is composed of none but picked men. It was the first troop disciplined and most chickent corps in the service, and is composed of none but picked men. It was the first troop of cavalry that left this State for the seat of war. More than four mouths have now clapsed since they took their departure from this city for Fortress Morres, where they have since been stationed. Under their able and experienced officers the men soon attained such a proficiency in their drill, and so comported themselves like thorough soldiers, that the veteran General Wool say $0.00 to the point them to act as his body guard. They accompany the General whenever he visits any of the different encampments now stationed at Old Point, and the men seem to be proud of the position which has been assigned them. A few weeks ago General Wool advantched Licentenant S. A. Mellick to this city for the jurpose of recruiting an additional hundred men to fill up the squadron, and, owing to the indistinguish exertions of this efficer, there are wanting low but a few more men to complete the requisite number. The re-cruiting office is at 424 Breadway. Sergeant Lee, who came on to this city with Licentenant Mellick, returned last week from the interior of the State with twenty men, after an absence of but a few days.

With this accession of one hundred men to their ranks, we have no doubt but that the "Wool Body Guard" will present a fine appearance, and create quite a furer when next they appear on parade.
